

NEWS

Later

Subscribe

Injured hiker rescued from Juan de Fuca trail

by Adam Chan
April 7, 2026 8:59 am

The rescue on April 6, 2026 is shown. (Juan de Fuca Search and Rescue/Facebook)

A hiker was rescued from the popular Juan de Fuca trail on Monday afternoon after suffering a lower leg injury.

Juan de Fuca Search and Rescue (JFSAR) was called to the Mystic Beach Trail area of the larger Juan de Fuca Marine Trail for a report of an injured day hiker.

“Upon arrival, our team, alongside paramedics from BCEHS, provided patient care before safely transporting the subject by stretcher to a waiting ambulance,” said JFSAR in a social media post.

“Thank you to BCF

Subscribe to our notifications for the latest news and updates. You can disable anytime.

The rescue occurred on April 6, 2026. (Juan de Fuca Search and Rescue/Facebook)

(Juan de Fuca

The Juan de Fuca Marine Trail stretches some 47 kilometres across the southwest coast of Vancouver Island, from China Beach near Jordan River to Botanical Beach near Port Renfrew.

The Juan de Fuca trailhead is located near Mystic Beach, which is one of the few campsites that’s still open on the trail due to storm damage that occurred in fall 2024.

Five other campsites have been closed for more than a year.

“The trail is unsafe and impassable, with damaged bridges, unstable slopes, washouts, fallen trees, and blocked sections,” reads the BC Parks website, last updated on Oct. 16, 2025.

“In the interest of public safety, please follow all closures until the repairs are completed. A further update will be posted in Spring 2026,” reads the website.

READ PREVIOUS: Hikers scramble for alternatives after damage shuts B.C.’s popular Juan de Fuca Trail

Subscribe to our notifications for the latest news and updates. You can disable anytime.