A hiker was hauled to safety after suffering an injury on the Mystic Beach Trail Monday (April 6)

Juan de Fuca Search and Rescue teams were put to the test, tasked around 1:30 p.m. with rescuing a day hiker who had sustained a lower leg injury.

Upon arrival, the team, alongside paramedics from BC Emergency Health Services, provided patient care before safely transporting the subject by stretcher to a waiting ambulance.

The rescue comes a week after the same team was tasked with searching for two overdue day hikers north of Jordan River.

The subjects were located early the next morning and safely transported back to their waiting family.
